There is no doubt that the use of the word "discovery" is a common one in the legal system. It is a word that is used to describe the process of finding out something new or unknown. In the legal context, it often refers to the process of uncovering evidence or facts that are relevant to a case. The word "discovery" is also used to describe the process of identifying a new legal principle or rule. In either case, the word "discovery" is a key concept in the legal system, and it is one that is used frequently by judges, lawyers, and scholars alike.
